Aerospace Engineer Finds Success at Infinity Commercial Real Estate Group

Tuesday October 23, 1:04 pm ET

CERRITOS, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Rick Lewis is an electrical engineer who worked in the aerospace industry. Downsized due to the downturn after 9/11, he changed career paths and became a broker with Infinity Commercial Real Estate Group (www.infinityspecialists.com) in 2004 and his second career has flourished.

After serving in the United States Air Force, Rick graduated from the University of Nebraska. Little did he know that he would later return to Nebraska as an owner of a 34-unit apartment complex. After graduating from college, Rick worked in the aerospace industry with Hughes Aircraft Company and Boeing. After leaving the aerospace industry, he obtained his Real Estate license in 2003 and joined Infinity in 2004 because he saw the greater opportunities in the commercial sector due to its cash flow benefits.

At Infinity Commercial Real Estate Group, Rick applies his business skills to his own personal investments. In 2007, Rick sold his California three-unit apartment complex and upgraded to a 34-unit apartment complex in Omaha, Nebraska using a 1031 Tax Exchange program and has benefited from the increased cash flows.

Rick, like many other brokers at Infinity Commercial Real Estate, was mentored by the company Founder, Tony Lee. Lee is an immigrant who left Vietnam as a boat person in 1978 and immigrated to the United States. Remembering his humble beginnings, Tony mentors and empowers his own agents so they too can prosper from the opportunities in the industry.

"I have really enjoyed how my career has flourished at Infinity Commercial Real Estate Group," said Lewis. "I have learned new business skills and have been able to purchase a major commercial real estate property in my home state. It has been a great experience."

"Having Rick as part of the Infinity Commercial team has been a real strength for us. He has been a great resource and an example for the growth opportunities in the commercial sector," said Tony Lee, Founder of Infinity Commercial Real Estate.

Infinity Commercial Real Estate Group (www.infinityspecialists.com) has found great success in today's challenging real estate market by specializing in income producing commercial properties, specifically with multi-unit apartments.

The commercial real estate sector continues to be more robust than the residential sector at this time. According to the National Association of Realtors, the Commercial Leading Indicator for Brokerage Activity in the first quarter 2007 rose to the highest level on record.
